

Rock el Casbah, Egyptian Arab Spring and women's empowerment

Published on June 8, 2020 – Updated on June 8, 2020

Dates

on the June 8, 2020

Focus on Research

Rock el Casbah, Egyptian Arab Spring and women's empowerment

In Egypt, the Arab Spring has been a massive popular revolution, very unpredictable and characterised by an active participation of women. This revolution has moved forward until the households, where women exposed to the revolution have raised their bargaining power.

Read in French(/toutes-les-actualites/zoom-sur-la-recherche/sous-les-paves-l-emption-les-femmes-egyptiennes-et-le-printemps-arabe-212422.kjsp?RH=1505391225734#/admin)

About the authors

Olivier Bargain

Professor in Economics, University of Bordeaux.

Delphine Boutin

Associate Professor in Economics, University of Bordeaux.

Hugues Champeaux

PhD student in Economics, University of Clermont Auvergne, CERDI.

Reference

Olivier Bargain, Delphine Boutin, and Hugues Champeaux (2019). "Women's political participation and intrahousehold empowerment: Evidence from the Egyptian Arab Spring(<https://doi.org/10.1016/j.jdeveco.2019.102379>).\" Journal of Development Economics, 141(November 2019), 102379.

<https://cerdi.uca.fr/english-version/news/news/research-focus/rock-el-casbah-egyptian-arab-spring-and-womens-empowerment>(<https://cerdi.uca.fr/english-version/news/news/research-focus/rock-el-casbah-egyptian-arab-spring-and-womens-empowerment>)