What are the new challenges for the fiscal policy in the Central and Eastern Europe countries?

This symposium is a selection of four policy-relevant research papers presented at the 2019 GEBA-GDR Money, Banking and Finance Thematic Conference organized by the Faculty of Economics and Business Administration (FEAA) at the University "Alexandru Ioan Cuza" of Iasi (Romania) and supported by the INFER (International Network For Economic Research). Motivated by two observations, namely that Fiscal policy was (and still is) the main tool for stabilization following the 2008-2009 financial crisis and that compared with other economic and monetary unions, including the United States or the two African Economic and Monetary Unions, the European Union is a particular area, the special issue is dedicated to the analysis of fiscal policies in post-communist Central and Eastern European countries.
